In a letter to The Bulletin he states he enjoyed the outing greatly, and only regretted that she time at his disposal was not longer. In Costa Rica he was the guest of E. D. Nash, formerly of this city. Mr. Nash carried him over the country — a railroad automobile that made 40 miles an hour. Mr. and Mrs. Nash are enjoying good health. They are located in a handsome residence with surrounding grounds of three acres that are laid out in an attractive way in flower gardens and hedges. Their home is at Chanquinola Junction.

Junction.

On his way down Mr. Ashe made his first stop at Belise, Honduras, and with a party of seven left the steamer there to zet a view of the country. The second stop was at Puerto Barroe, Gustemala. On the trip down Mr. Ashe went on one side of the Island and returning came along the other coast.

At Boons Del Tarro he saw a celebration of Queen Victoria's birthfay, which occupied a week. The steamer touched at Port Antonio, where Mr.
Ashe visited Blue Hall, a cave 90 feet deep. He met a party of Hindus in their native dress. Mr. Ashe was much interested in the culture of banamas and coccanuts. On the return trip bananas were taken on board at several ports, and the carrying of the fruit was done by women. The trip

There were then only 22 schools of this kind. The earliest beginning was made at the close of the eighteenth century, when several lectures on the subject were delivered. Later a few sisterhoods and societies sent out trained deaconesses but the nurses ranks were usually recruited from housemaids or convalescents. The next two were the New England in Boston and Bellevue in New York in 1872. There were many objections made to this innovation—objections which time has entirely dispelled and rendered invalid. They have grown in numbers until in 1908 there were $25 tratining schools with 5,600 graduates. There is an army of 22,000 nurses in actual service today. Viewing this army in its wide extent of need and service shows that ten million dollars are spent yearly in of need and service shows that ten million dollars are spent yearly in housing them. Two new institutions in New York have cost over a million and the cost of maintenance is great also. But they pay. This army has opportunity for a wide educational field and may be an influence of much good if it has a broad view of its calling, which is the relief of mankind. They may teach what they have learned—that correct environment is more necessary than drugs and that drugs are not to be given indiscriminately, but only after careful wauregan Monday night.
